IMPRESSED WITH NEED OF IMMEDIATE RELIEF

President, in Long-Awaited Conservation Speech Gives Evidence That the West Will Profit From His Observation Trip.

PROMISES TO URGE $10,000,000 BOND ISSUE

Taft Praises Work of Both Ballinger and Pinchot and Reiterates Administration's Commitment to Roosevelt Policies Will Demand Congressional Authority for Every Step.

SPOKANE, Wash.—President Taft delivered here today his long anticipated speech on the conservation of natural resources and outlined the policy of his administration on this subject of supreme importance to all the west.

Mr. Taft broadly took the stand that, while the present administration is pledged to follow out the policies of Mr. Roosevelt, such a pledge does not involve him in any obligation to carry out these policies without congressional authorization. The President admitted, however, that he would take every step and exert every influence to enact legislation which will best serve the purposes and requirements of the situation.

President Taft created a great deal of enthusiasm when he announced that he would urge upon Congress the necessity of authorizing the secretary of the interior to issue $10,000,000 of bonds for the completion of irrigation projects in the west upon which work has been suspended because of lack of funds and the discovery that the projectors in their enthusiasm did not closely observe the limitations of the act. Hardships have been worked upon many settlers through the operation of the law, and Senator Borah of Idaho and other western senators and representatives have urged upon the President that a bond issue was the only way by which justice could be done.

Mr. Taft declared today that Congress did not intend that the government should undertake projects which could not be currently paid for out of proceeds of the sales of public lands, but added that he has been impressed in his visit to the west with the necessity for immediate relief.

Quiets Controversy.

It was here in Spokane a little while ago that the national irrigation congress met and the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy arose. President Taft today gave credit to Mr. Pinchot and to Mr. Ballinger. He referred to the wonderful work of Mr. Pinchot and said that while that work had brought denunciation at first, it was now generally realized that reforms inaugurated by Mr. Pinchot were not only necessary, but should have been begun 10 years ago.

The President defended the reopening of lands by the present administration as a compliance with existing laws and declared that Mr. Ballinger's views are in strict accord with those of the administration and that he had been helpful and will use his powerful influence as secretary of the interior to support the President in obtaining congressional action that will put the Roosevelt policy of conservation on a firmer basis.

President Taft dictated his conservation speech on the train last night, sitting up until nearly 1 o'clock to complete the task. He arose at 6 a. m. today to correct the manuscript, and both before and after framing the address he consulted freely with Secretary Ballinger, who has been with the President since his arrival in Denver a week ago and will continue as a member of the party as far as Seattle.

Since his entry into the west and the testimony of his own eyes as to the miracles wrought by a touch of water upon the virgin land, the President has become an enthusiastic exponent of irrigation and declared today that no one could visit this section of the country without being convinced of the necessity of a proper treatment of the arid lands.

At Seattle Tonight.

Tonight the President left for North Yakima, Wash., where he will arrive early tomorrow morning. From North Yakima, the President will go direct to Seattle, arriving at 8:15 tomorrow night to spend two days in and about the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific fair.

Secretary Ballinger today received a telegram from the American mining congress at Goldfield, Nev., asking him to urge upon Congress the establishment in the interior department of a national bureau of mines of equal standing with the geological survey, and which would include in its work inquiries and investigations leading to greater safety and efficiency in mining.

The secretary replied that he would earnestly urge such action in his coming report to the President and hoped Congress would favor this view of the matter.

Governor M. E. Hay, in introducing the President today, said:

"We like Taft because Roosevelt liked him."

When the President responded, he said:

"Your governor said you trusted Roosevelt and that because Roosevelt trusted me you trust me. Now I am

A MOST REMARKABLE YEAR SO FAR

CRAPSER'S CONVICTION IS FOURTH THIS TERM

ANOTHER DRUGGIST GUILTY OF VIOLATING LAWS.

Adolph Fehringer, Arrested on Similar Charge, Will Have Hearing Today in District Court.

M. L. Crapser, proprietor of the Alamo pharmacy, was last night found guilty in the district court of having violated the liquor laws of the state by selling beer in antisaloon territory. This is the fourth conviction on this charge secured by the district attorney's office during the present term of court.

Richie Budelier, the giant president of the Colorado College freshman class and R. J. Davis, a substitute postoffice clerk, testified that they purchased a bottle of beer from Crapser on the evening of August 31. They drank part of the beer before leaving the drug store. Budelier said he also saw a man buy whisky while he was in the store.

The motion of Attorney S. H. Kinsley, representing the defense, to continue the trial in order that the defendant might have time to produce the clerks on duty the night the beer was alleged to have been sold, was denied by Judge J. W. Sheafor. Kinsley said that he believed they could prove by the clerks, who are out of town that Crapser was not in the store the evening of August 31. Crapser offered no defense.

Fehringer Case Today.

The case of Adolph Fehringer, charged with the illegal sale of liquor, will come up for trial today. Fehringer is alleged to have sold beer the evening of September 2.

While arguing for a continuance of the Crapser case yesterday afternoon in court, Attorney Kinsley facetiously remarked that no druggist is safe in Colorado Springs unless he keeps a diary. Kinsley explained that each druggist should carefully set down in his diary, the name of every person he converses with each day, the exact time and topic of the conversation, the time of arriving at and leaving his place of business, what he eats and, in short, everything he does. Then when arrested and confronted with the testimony of a person who claims he purchased liquor from said druggist, the druggist could merely refer to his little diary and prove to the court that he was at home playing with the cat at the time the liquor was said to have been sold.

ORLANDO METCALF DIES AT PITTSBURG

FORMER PROMINENT SPRINGS MAN PASSES AWAY.

Was One of Founders of Colorado Midland Railroad—Owned Considerable Property Here.

Word has been received of the recent death in Pittsburg, Pa., of Orlando Metcalf, founder of the Colorado Midland railroad and for years Colorado Springs' most prominent citizen.

In the founding of the Midland road, Mr. Metcalf was associated with the late H. D. Fisher, the late Charles A. Lansing and others. Mr. Metcalf lived in Colorado Springs for about 20 years. He was a member of all the leading clubs and a large real estate owner. At the time of his death he owned considerable property in various parts of Colorado Springs. Mr. Metcalf's interests here have been looked after by Wills, Spackman and Kent.

Mr. Metcalf came to Colorado Springs from Pittsburg. While here his home was at the northwest corner of Willamette and Nevada avenues, then the most fashionable part of the city. He returned to Pittsburg ten years ago, and at the time of his death was owner of the Verona Tool company. He was 67 years old, and is survived by his widow, five daughters and one son. Two of his daughters, Mrs. Varker and Mrs. Reed, are well known in Colorado Springs, and have visited here frequently since their father moved to Pittsburg.

$1,500,000 CAUSEWAY BEGUN AT GALVESTON

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 28.—The inauguration of a causeway to connect Galveston island with the mainland was publicly celebrated today. The causeway will be 100 feet wide and about two miles long, crossing West bay. It will cost $1,500,000.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

SWEETS IN THE DIET.

Honey, like the sugar fruits, prunes, dates, figs, raisins, etc., is a natural sweet, wholesome when taken in moderate quantity. This can not be said of cane sugar or candies. Maple sugar is preferable to cane. Glucose, properly made from corn with a 20 per cent. mixture of maple sugar is a good appetizer for toast or other dry bread, as a substitute for butter, for children or invalids, if olive or peanut oil is taken.

All sweets are quickly assimilated, and beneficial, if there is a demand for them from the system, as when much exercise is taken. Natural sweets should be judiciously supplied to children, and the wholesome adult will retain the "sweet tooth" to the seventh age. But taken in excess sweets cause gastric catarrh, congest the liver and strain the kidneys. In diabetes these foods are to be carefully avoided. It has been observed that where there is a craving for alcohol the desire for sweets is absent. Children should be properly supplied with sweets properly.

STAGE AS LARGE AS ONE IN THE BROADWAY

FURTHER DETAILS CONCERNING NEW OPERA HOUSE.

Property on Which Structure Will Be Erected Is Transferred to Burns Trading Company.

Steps preliminary to actual construction work on the new $300,000 business block on East Pikes Peak avenue immediately west of the new Exchange Bank building were taken yesterday when Howard Masterson, representing James F. Burns, filed the deeds transferring the property between the bank and The Gazette alley from James F. Burns to the Burns Trading company.

The property includes the three-story Durkee building and several one-story frame structures, and has a frontage on Pikes Peak avenue of 120 feet with a depth of 180 feet.

According to present plans the new building, which will be three stories high, will contain four store rooms, an opera house and offices. Two store rooms, each 20 feet long, will be on either side of a 20-foot corridor leading into the opera house. The corridor will have a rubber tiled floor with marble walls and will be decorated in the most luxurious style.

When completed the opera house will be one of the finest in the west. There will not be a column or pillar to obstruct the view of the stage. The seating capacity will be in the neighborhood of 1,400, and every seat in the three floors of the opera house will be reserved. The stage will be the same size as the Broadway theater stage in Denver. It will have beautifully ornamented Ionic columns on either side, and every modern lighting and scene shifting device in general use through the east. The building will probably be built of terra cotta. Douglas and Hetherington are drawing the plans.

Tenants in the Durkee building and the other buildings on the site of the new block have been notified to vacate between December 1 and 15. Work will be begun as soon as the buildings are vacated.

TRIBUTE TO FRISCO

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—In recognition of San Francisco's recovery from the ruin of the recent earthquake, all Indianapolis street cars will stop one minute at noon of October 18, according to an announcement of President Hugh McGowan of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company today.

EMPHASIZES DANGER

Pinchot Says Control of Water Power Resources Greatest Task of Today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28. Gifford Pinchot arrived here today en route to Washington.

"Control of the water power resources of the country," said Mr. Pinchot, "probably is the greatest task confronting the people of the United States. No private corporation in the future ought to be able to secure a grant of public resources in perpetuity.

President Taft will urge upon Congress the necessity of an appropriation for conservation work, and if Congress responds, the money will be expended for the benefit of forests, waterways, water power sites, lands and mineral deposits."

NO POSITIVE PROOF IN POSSESSION OF PEARY

Statement of Case Against Rival Leaves Verdict in Hands of the Public.

CLUB TO PASS UPON IT

Whitney Believes Both Explorers Reached the Pole—Knew Nothing of Records.

BAR HARBOR, Maine, Sept. 28.—The material which Commander Peary will produce to support his contention that Dr. Cook did not reach the North pole is now in completed form, and as soon as it has been passed on by the Peary Arctic club it will be made public. General Hubbard, president of the club, and Commander Peary concluded their conference today.

The statement will be only the opening of the fight which Peary will wage on Dr. Cook. It is intimated Peary has yet other information to prove his contention, but he thinks it will be unnecessary to make it public at this time. General Hubbard said tonight:

"The statement has been prepared and will be submitted to the club. I do not feel competent to say whether the club will approve of it exactly in its present form. The statement will simply contain facts in their proper order and will contain no arguments except as the statement itself constitutes an argument.

"I do not care to go on record as saying that the statement will prove Dr. Cook did not reach the pole. That is a matter for the public to judge. I can say that Peary's statements are true."

Commander Peary was informed tonight that Harry Whitney, on his arrival at St. Johns today, had stated that he had read the instructions Commander Peary left with Boatswain Murphy regarding the stores at Annatook and Etah. Whitney stated that Murphy could not read and that the instructions said that those guarding the supplies were to use Cook's supplies first and then Peary's.

Commander Peary said:

"I left explicit instructions with Murphy about those supplies, but until the main question in this controversy is settled, I shall not make those instructions public. There was nothing ambiguous about the instructions with regard to providing for Dr. Cook if he needed assistance."

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 28.—Harry Whitney believes both Dr. Cook and Commander Peary found the North pole. In expressing this belief today, Mr. Whitney said he knows no reason for doubting Cook more than Peary.

"Dr. Cook's story," he said, "seems to me truthful and probable. Nothing else would explain his 12 months' absence."

The schooner Jeanie arrived today, with Mr. Whitney aboard, coming from the coast by way of Indian Harbor, Labrador. He went north, he said, merely on a hunting trip and now finds himself in the storm center of a polar controversy.

Dr. Cook left with him at Annatook several cases containing instruments and some other belongings, but so far as Mr. Whitney knew, no written records. There may have been records, however, packed with Dr. Cook's personal effects, but the explorer did not tell him he was leaving written records in his possession.

HISTORY VISUALIZED BEFORE ADMIRING MILLIONS

Hudson-Fulton Historical Parade at Gotham a Wonderful Object Lesson.

THRONG UNPRECEDENTED

20,000 in Line and Immense Floats Illustrate Progress of Three Centuries.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Two million people today saw a parade of 20,000 men and 24 floats which passed before envoys of 21 nations participating in the Hudson-Fulton exposition.

Mayor George B. McClellan and Herman Ridder, vice president of the Hudson celebration commission, headed the line and covered the entire distance on foot. There was no military show, no distinguished personages in vehicles; all, with the exception of platoons of police, were afoot. It was before a court of honor on the grounds of the new public library, that the paraders passed. Vice President James S. Sherman was flanked on either side by Admirals LePord and Seymour of the French and English squadrons, respectively. Governor Hughes, Seth Low, Prince Kuni of Japan, and the German Grand Admiral Von Koester, were seated nearby.

Tammany, with a thousand stalwart members in Prince Alberts and high hats, made a picturesque showing. Squads of school children, New York university, Columbia, City college and Rutgers college students, members of Irish, Italian, French, Scotch, Swedish and other societies, forward and behind came other organizations seemingly without end.

History Visualized.

American history in visible form passed in review today before the eyes of the millions of spectators that lined the route of the first Hudson-Fulton land pageant from the upper end of Central park to Washington square. Thousands of dollars and months of effort were spent to make this parade of 54 floats an accurate reproduction of the life in New York state from legendary Indian times that preceded the first settlement to the first voyage of the Clermont in 1807.

The line of parade had to be selected with great care because of the great size of the floats, which are said to be the largest and most elaborate ever exhibited. They could not pass under the elevated railroad, and even the electric decorations of the court of honor and reviewing stands on Fifth avenue, opposite the new public library, had to be changed at the last moment to accommodate them.

The four main divisions summarized the history of the country. First came the Indian period, with floats depicting the five nations with their totems, the legend of Hiawatha, the first sachem of the Iroquois, clothed in hissing snakes, and then a succession of allegories.

The Dutch period followed, with floats representing the discovery of the Hudson river; the fate of Henry Hudson, who was set adrift by his mutinous crew in Hudson bay in 1611, and never recovered; the reception to Peter Stuyvesant, most famous of the Dutch governors general; the first ship built on Manhattan island, and other mat-

MOVEMENT FOR FEDERAL DEPARTMENT OF MINES HAS INDORSEMENT OF BALLINGER

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Sept. 28.—The creation of a federal department of mines was urged by United States Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada before the American Mining congress today.

A resolution calling for the organization of such a department was adopted and handed the San Francisco delegation to be presented to President Taft on his arrival at that city next week. A telegram also was sent to Secretary Ballinger at Spokane, who answered, promising the desired recommendation.

Congressman W. F. Englebright of California expressed views similar to those of Mr. Newlands. Mr. Newlands dwelt upon the importance of the mining industry, contending that it stood next to agriculture and that the powers of both the nation and the states should be exercised in the diffusion of knowledge regarding it and instruction as to methods of security and economical development.

"Just as agriculture has been taken hold of by the states and the nation," said the speaker, "each supplementing the other in useful work, so mining should be taken hold of. We should have immediately a national department or bureau of mines and a national school of mines as well as state and publications made regarding scientific mining similar to those now made regarding scientific agriculture.

"In the inauguration of this policy, it will be necessary for the national government to take the lead. We have taken hold of agriculture, forestry and irrigation in scientific fashion. We are about to take hold of our internal waterways in such fashion as to take the improvement of rivers and harbors out of the spoils system. This does not mean paternalism; it means the encouragement of competitive private enterprise and in the end a wider individualism and freedom from monopolistic control.

"In this work the American Mining congress should take its place side by side with the other associations devoted to irrigation, to forestry, to waterways and to conservation in urging that the whole question of the preservation and development of our national resources should be taken up in comprehensive legislation, national and state."

The convention settled down to business today. After the introduction of several resolutions, which were referred to committees, the delegates entered into a discussion of the silver question.

The debate was restricted, any political reference being barred, and hinged upon the ways and means open to the mining industry to create a larger market for the white metal. The discussion preceded the reading of several papers on this subject presented by men of wide reputation in the mining fraternity. Following these, papers were read on the relation of the stock exchange to mining and upon the proper regulation of stocks to safeguard the best interests of the industry and speed

SPANISH LOSS HEAVY

Dead Bodies of 150 Soldiers and Several Officers Are Discovered.

MELILLA, Sept. 28.—A detachment reconnoitering the Beni-Sicar region had a sharp brush with the Moors today. A Spanish major and several soldiers were killed and 11 soldiers were wounded.

The troops will follow up their recent victories at Nador and Zeloun. They are now engaged in driving the enemy, now only about 3,000 into a corner around the edge of Mount Gurugu.

A detachment of Spanish troops searching the gorges of Mount Gurugu found the bodies of more than 150 Spanish soldiers and several officers killed in the fighting between August 25 and 27.

DISPUTED TERRITORY WILL BE REGARDED AS NEUTRAL WHEN TAFT AND DIAZ MEET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—When the long-heralded meeting between Presidents Taft and Diaz at El Paso and Juarez takes place next month, territory between these two cities, which is in dispute, will be, for this occasion, regarded as neutral territory, and flags of neither nation will be displayed there.

This understanding has been reached by the two nations after much correspondence. The region known as the "El Chamizal" contains about 500 acres. Ownership is in question because of the shifting of the Rio Grande channel, the dividing line between the two countries.

On October 16, President Diaz will be welcomed in the name of President Taft at the entrance to El Paso, outside of El Chamizal zone. When President Taft goes to Mexico he will be welcomed in the name of President Diaz at the entrance of Juarez.

President Taft's escort will consist of a headquarters band and two squadrons of the Third United States cavalry, batteries A, B and C, Third field artillery, and the Ninth infantry from Fort Sam Houston, all under command of Brigadier-General Albert L. Myer, commanding the department of Texas.

Secretary of War Dickinson, accompanied by Brigadier General Myer with his staff, two squadrons of cavalry and three batteries of field artillery will proceed to the point where President Diaz, accompanied by an escort of 50 men, will enter the United States. By agreement the escort will be limited to 50 men, while the executives are crossing "El Chamizal."

After a visit with President Taft, President Diaz will return to Mexico.

At noon President Taft will go to Juarez to repay President Diaz' visit. In crossing "El Chamizal" the President will be accompanied by an escort of 50 men. To the border the President will be escorted by the American cavalry and artillery. At the Mexican border the President will be welcomed by a personal representative of President Diaz and will then proceed, surrounded by a Mexican escort, to the building where he will be received by President Diaz. Mr. Taft and his party then will return to El Paso.

About 5:30 the same afternoon, President Taft will leave El Paso for Juarez to attend the banquet of President Diaz.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—That October 16, the day set for the meeting of Presidents Diaz and Taft at El Paso, be declared a national holiday, to be known as "Diaz and Taft day," is being urged by the Electoral club of Aztlx county.

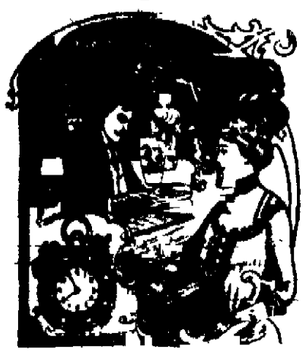

WANT LARGER CAVALRY FORCE IN COLORADO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A call for a larger assignment of cavalry for the department of Colorado is made by Brigadier General Earl D. Thomas, commanding, in his annual report to the war department, made public today. At present, he points out, there are only seven troops of cavalry in the department, an inadequate force in view of the position of the department and the number of Indians in its vicinity.

glad to accept this method of winning your approval. As to Secretary Ballinger, I want to thank the state of Washington for giving me such a competent official. I am glad that I have come out among those who know him, to testify as to his efficiency and integrity."

The President's speech in full follows

I am going to take up today the subject of the conservation of our natural resources. This has been given a very wide scope I don't propose to cover the whole ground today. I shall confine my attention to those parts of the policy which are certainly within the jurisdiction of the national government and especially concern the country west of the Missouri river.

I refer first, to the preservation of the national forests; second, to the reclamation of the arid and semiarid lands by irrigation, third, to the disposition of water power sites upon public lands with proper restrictions upon the use both in respect to the compensation, its extent in point of time, and adjustment of rates to be charged to the public by the beneficiary of the grant fourth to the disposition of coal oil and phosphate lands owned by the government with such restrictions as will permit their development for private profit and yet will prevent monopoly and extortion in the sale of the product

The national forests as reserved by executive order contain about 187,000,000 acres of land in the United States proper All of this land is now under the direct control of the forestry bureau, and is being preserved from fire and from other destruction and is being treated in accordance with the best modern methods of treating forests under the supervision of Mr Pinchot, the chief forester and the head of the bureau of forestry in the department of agriculture

It appears that the government timber land is only about one-fourth of the timber land owned by private individuals and only 3 per cent of timber land owned by private individuals is properly looked after according to modern methods of forestry. The destruction by fire of forests is estimated to be $50,000,000 a year It would seem, therefore, imperative that the states should exercise their jurisdiction over these forests to which I have referred, and which are held by private individuals and require some system of fire protection and the adoption of the best methods of forestry. It would seem that the states have a right to do this because of the general interest which the public has in the preservation of the forests and in its equalizing of the water supply and its effect upon the climate The regulation of the water supply, of course, prevents erosion of the soil and wasteful destruction of the best part of the soil, which is carried down the rivers with the floods

Pinchot Appreciated.

I won't stop to discuss at length the forestry question. The wonderful progress made by Mr. Pinchot, with the earnest support of Mr Roosevelt and Secretary Wilson, at times has met the denunciation of personalin this western country, on the ground that property was being taken which Congress intended for individuals, and was being withheld from them. But I think general opposition to Mr. Pinchot's plans has disappeared, and that the great body of the American people recognizes the benefit of the reform in connection with forestry, and greatly regret that it was not begun years before The Congress has come to recognize the necessity of pursuing forestry reform by making liberal appropriations for the purpose. The forest lands of the United States ought to be surveyed and carefully preserved and its jurisdiction in respect to them clearly designed.

The regulation of forests in private ownership within state boundaries is not plainly within the scope of federal jurisdiction, and it has been undertaken by the states. I don't think that the states have taken up the matter with as much energy as they ought, and have not improved the opportunity which was given them by way of example by the forestry bureau of the United States. The question whether the federal government, with the purpose of equalizing the flow of water in navigable streams and to promote navigation during the entire year, may enter upon a plan of regulating existing forests and reforesting certain denuded territory in the states, I need not now discuss. The subject would involve a wider discussion than I have time to give it.

Indorses Projects.

The plan of the government to reclaim the arid and semiarid lands, manifested in the reclamation act, has been carried out most rapidly by the bureau charged with its execution. I had the honor the other day, in Colorado, of opening the most ambitious of these projects—at least, the most difficult of them—the Gunnison tunnel, which is to bring water into a valley in Colorado known as the Uncompahgre valley, with some 150,000 acres, and to put it in a condition to grow fruit and cereals.

There are some 30 projects which have been entered upon by the reclamation bureau, and I believe all of them are to be commended for their excellent adaptation for the purpose for which they were erected, and for the speed with which the work has been done It is said, however, in the planning of a number of these improvements the enthusiasm of the projectors has carried them to a point where they begin to feel embarrassment in the matter of resources with which to complete the projects and begin to show that the strict limitations of the reclamation act were not greatly observed by those engaged in executing them that the projects were too many and more than could be completed in a reasonable time after their beginning, because of a lack of funds

The reclamation act provides for the expenditure of funds made up by the sale of public lands and reimbursed from time to time by the installment to be paid by the settlers who take up the irrigated land, and also provides that no part of a project is to be contracted for and begun until the money for the completion of that part of the project contracted for shall be in the reclamation fund.

$10,000,000 Needed.

Now it appears that it will take $10,000,000 or more which is not available in the reclamation fund at present, fully to complete the projects, and it also appears that a great number of persons by reason of the beginning of the projects have been led into making settlements the expenditure of time and labor, with the hope and upon the reliance that such reclamation enterprises would be carried through in a reasonable time.

I think that there is no doubt that it was the intention of Congress that projects should not be multiplied in such a way that they could not be completed within a reasonable time with the reclamation funds provided by the sale of public lands, and it would probably have been wiser to adhere strictly to the limitation thus construed, even though the language of the act, by dividing up the projects into parts on terms, seemed to permit the beginning of more projects than there was likely to be money enough to complete within a reasonable time.

The pressure was doubtless very great and the reclamation service yielded to the pressure within the letter of the law and now find themselves in the situation described. The work has been well done and reflects great credit upon the engineers who have had charge of it.

But something must be done to relieve the present situation which is one of disappointed hopes to many settlers upon the arid lands, who counted upon an early completion of the projects undertaken and invested their money and spent their time and seemed to be no nearer the goal of satisfactory irrigation than they were when the projects were begun.

Favors Bond Issue.

I THINK IT WISE TO APPLY TO CONGRESS FOR RELIEF BY URGING THE PASSAGE OF AN ENABLING ACT WHICH SHALL PERMIT THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR TO ISSUE BONDS IN THE SUM OF $10,000,000 OR MORE TO COMPLETE ALL THE PROJECTS. THESE BONDS SHOULD BE REDEEMED FROM THE MONEY PAID INTO THE RECLAMATION FUNDS AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE PROJECTS. FROM CONVERSATION WITH SENATORS WHO HAVE VISITED MUCH OF THE RECLAMATION WORK, I INFER THAT SUCH A PROPOSAL SEEMS TO THEM TO BE THE EASIEST WAY OUT OF THE DIFFICULTY AND I SHALL TAKE PLEASURE IN RECOMMENDING THE PASSAGE OF SUCH A REMEDIAL MEASURE BY THE NEXT CONGRESS.

No one can visit this western country without being overwhelmingly convinced of the urgent necessity for the proper treatment of arid and semiarid lands by the extension of systems of irrigation. The results in the productivity of the soil when irrigated are marvelous. The mere fact that the reclamation service has gone ahead too fast ought not to prevent Congress tendering its aid to overcome the difficulty.

Meantime irrigation works under private auspices are being projected in other directions and the project of reclaiming millions of acres from the deserts is most encouraging. The examples of government engineering and ingenuity in planning the structures in these various government projects for irrigation are of immense utility as models for private enterprise.

One subject that is now being agitated in some quarters calls for notice. Payment for irrigated lands is required in 10 annual installments. Suggestions are now being made that these should be lengthened into a longer term. I sincerely hope that Congress will not listen to such appeals. It may be well to make the first three or four installments nominal, but after that the installments should be large enough to pay the total amount due upon which no interest is calculated in 10 years. Another course will encourage lack of thrift and industry and greatly embarrass extension and continuance of irrigation.

When the government became possessed of its public domain and took measures to secure its settlement by the passage of the homestead and other acts, the chief object of Congress seemed to be to secure development by inducing people in settling on public land and acquire it for themselves. Seemingly no thought of conserving the resources which were thus opened to prevent acquisition occurred to Congress. Its generosity to the Pacific railroads in offering public lands in such extensive grants to them is an instance of spirit which actuated Congress 30 and 40 and 50 years ago. I am not criticising Congress in the slightest for this policy It certainly was necessary to make extensive grants to secure the construction of a railroad which should unite the Pacific coast with the Atlantic coast and bring closer to the eastern seaboard the far distant regions of this country. I merely refer to it in a historical way to explain the character of the statutes now upon the statute books with reference to the sale and disposition of public lands.

Classification Needed.

Never until now has adequate provision been made for a classification of lands to show distinctly what are mineral lands and what are agricultural lands. The truth is that the needs of the country have developed so and the demand for land has so much increased, that in order to secure a sensible, businesslike disposition of the lands remaining in the public domain there must be an authoritative classification of lands by the proper bureau.

With respect to forest lands owned by the public, they should be surveyed and held by the government under the regulation of the forestry bureau, permitting a sale of timber as shall be necessary in the forest preservation.

AS TO WATER POWER SITES THERE HAS BEEN SUCH A CHANGE IN CONDITIONS THAT A SPECIAL PROVISION SHOULD BE MADE IN THE INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC FOR THEIR TRANSFER TO PRIVATE CONTROL.

WE HAVE REACHED A TIME NOW WHEN IMPORTANCE OF THESE WATER POWER SITES HAS GREATLY INCREASED AND THERE WOULD SEEM TO BE NO REASON WHY IT WOULD INTERFERE WITH A SPEEDY DEVELOPMENT OF THE COUNTRY TO IMPOSE RESTRICTIONS UPON THE USE OF SUCH WATER SITES EQUITABLE AS BETWEEN THE PUBLIC AND THE INVESTOR.

Authority Lacking.

There is now no power on the part of the secretary of the interior in the disposition of such sites to impose the conditions suggested

The matter has become so important that under the last administration large tracts of lands amounting to upward of four million acres were temporarily withdrawn from settlement in order to prevent the acquisition of water power sites under the general land laws. This amount has been reduced under the present administration to 450,000 acres. It should be understood that these withdrawals are temporary and can be justified only as having been made in order to permit Congress to legislate on the subject of water power sites.

I SHALL URGE UPON CONGRESS AT ITS NEXT SESSION THE PASSAGE OF A LAW AUTHORIZING THE DISPOSITION OF SUCH WATER POWER SITES UPON TERMS TO BE AGREED UPON BY THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR WITH THE PROPOSED PURCHASES.

Will Mean Revenue.

It may turn out that restrictions of this sort are so burdensome as to discourage the investment of capital and it may be necessary to modify the requirement on this account. But my own impression is that the demand for water power is going to be so great that these restrictions will not prevent the investment of capital, but will ultimately bring to the public coffers a revenue from an entirely proper source and will secure the development of a power for manufacturing industries that will probably in time exceed the utility and value of coal and become a substitute for it.

It seems wise in the disposition of coal lands and indeed of all mineral lands having agricultural value, to separate the surface of the land from its mineral contents and then either to lease the right to take coal from the land at a specified compensation per ton—that is to provide a system of royalties—or to sell the deposits of the land outright to the coal miner In every case restriction by way of forfeiture ought to be included to prevent a monopoly of ownership This is the greatest object of a change in the method of their disposition

The oil lands of California as well as the phosphate lands and practically all the coal lands have been withdrawn from settlement to await the action of Congress, and I expect to recommend to Congress legislation on the lines above indicated, with the general purpose of enabling the secretary of the interior to secure more benefit to the public and greater certainty in the security against the monopoly of resources

Administration's Attitude

There has been a good deal of discussion in the newspapers as to the attitude of the present administration toward the general policy of conservation of resources and some unfair and altogether unfounded inferences have been drawn

THE TRUTH IS MY ADMINISTRATION IS PLEDGED TO FOLLOW OUT THE POLICIES OF MR ROOSEVELT IN THIS REGARD AND WHILE THAT PLEDGE DOES NOT INVOLVE ME IN ANY OBLIGATION TO CARRY THEM OUT UNLESS I BELIEVE CONGRESS HAS FULL AUTHORITY TO DO SO IT DOES REQUIRE THAT I TAKE EVERY STEP AND EXERT EVERY LEGITIMATE INFLUENCE UPON CONGRESS TO ENACT LEGISLATION WHICH SHALL BEST SUBSERVE THE PURPOSES INDICATED

I do not think that Congress if properly approached will object to adopting legislation of the general character which I have outlined

Secretary Ballinger upon whom will fall the duty of executing the new provisions of the law is in entire accord with me as to the necessity for promoting in every legitimate way conservation of the resources which I have named and he can be counted upon to use the great influence which he must have as secretary of interior to this proper end Indeed it will be found that in his reports as commissioner of the general land office he brought these matters to the attention of Congress and urged the adoption of a general policy along the lines I have indicated

EIGHT DROWN OFF DELAWARE CAPES

NORWEGIAN VESSEL FOUNDERS IN HIGH SEA.

Seven of Crew Reach Lightship After Thrilling Battle With the Waves.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Eight men were drowned and seven had a narrow escape from death by the foundering, Saturday, of the Norwegian steamer Gere, six miles from the Winter Quarter lightship. The seven men saved arrived today on the British steamer Arroyo, which took them from the lightship. They are Captain Julius Meyer and six men. They said the Gere, which left here Friday with a crew of 15 and a cargo of coal for Sagua La Grande, Cuba, encountered rough weather after passing Delaware Capes.

Off the Winter Quarters lightship, when only three men were on deck, an unusual sea struck the steamer and she keeled over at a dangerous angle. She was repeatedly struck by high seas, and finally went over on her side. Nothing could be done to right the vessel, and she settled rapidly. The only boat had been swept from the davits and was floating away, therefore there was nothing for the men to do but jump into the sea All managed to find timber or other floating objects from the steamer, and the stronger swimmers struck out from the drift to the boat. The light craft was floating bottom up, but was righted and an attempt was made to clear it of water. Enough was gotten out after a two hours' struggle, to permit all to climb in. The weakest of the swimmers and two that could not swim, went down. Late in the afternoon the men sighted the Winter Quarter lightship, the crew of which took them on board

ADJOURN FREIGHT RATE HEARNG TO OCTOBER 29

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 28.—Another day of technical routine in which testimony of traffic experts was brought to the forefront in a final effort to supply added importance to the vast array of statistical tables and exhibits which have served as the basis of contention for the defendant parties, brought to a close tonight the hearing of the local traffic bureau's rate case, presided over by Interstate Commerce Commissioners Clark and Prouty. Commissioner Clark announced an adjournment of the hearing until October 29. On this date, Mr. Clark said, a two days' hearing will be given for the final summing up by counsel.

Hobbs, cashier, has been made treasurer of the company, and Lewis B Johnson, a local attorney, secretary Confirmation was also given today to the report that F W Mahl mechanical engineer and purchasing agent for the Colorado and Southern, has resigned to become assistant to Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance of the Harriman lines

RIVALS KLONDIKE RUSH

Stampede From Fairbanks to Newly Discovered Placer Field on Iditarod.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Sept. 28.—The stampede to the Iditarod country promises to rival the rush to Dawson in the days of the Klondike boom. The steamer Reliance which arrived today from Innoko fully confirms the reports of rich placers on Otter creek, a tributary of the Iditarod, to which 1,000 miners have gone from Fairbanks. Fifteen hundred men are on the creek.

RESUME WORK ON HIGH LINE CANAL

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Sept. 28.—Within less than a week since the visit of President Taft and Secretary Ballinger, work was resumed today in a small way on the high line canal, formerly known as the "Grand Valley Project." Work on this enterprise was stopped by Secretary Ballinger last spring. Although local reclamation officers will make no statement beyond the announcement that surveying has been resumed, a feeling of satisfaction prevails over President Taft's visit, and the belief is general that work on this project soon will be resumed on a large scale.

NATIONAL WOMEN'S TRADE UNION LEAGUE IN SESSION AT CHICAGO

Objects of League.

Equal pay with men for equal work
Eight-hour day for women.
Better labor conditions for women generally.

CHICAGO, Sept 28.—The delegates to the National Women's Trade Union league assembled here yesterday in second biennial convention

About 50 delegates are expected from points as widely separated as Boston and San Francisco, besides delegates from France Germany, Italy and England Miss Mary MacArthur, secretary of the British Women's Trade Union league, from London Mrs Werner Hagemann of Munich Germany and Miss Agnes Herman, secretary of the Verband Kaufmannischer Weiblicher Angestellten, or Berlin are among the foreign delegates

Among those present the career of Miss Mary E MacArthur is perhaps the most striking She is now 28 years old, but during the last seven years she has been at the center of the great English fights for women's rights, especially in labor She was made secretary of the British Women's Trade Union league in 1903 and the same year was appointed delegate to the British Trade union conference composed of the labor leaders of England

For four years she was the only woman member of the London Trades council She has organized many strikes of working girls against reduction in wages She took an active part in the Antisweating campaign, which has resulted in the passage of the trades board bill through the house of commons to secure a minimum wage in sweated industries.

What a Difference In Food Choppers!

Sargent's Gem Chopper

Has some very striking advantages it is a simple, inexpensive labor-saving, time-saving machine It is easy to adjust easy to use, and can be cleaned with less trouble than the slow, noisy, tiresome, old-fashioned chopping bowl and knife

This chopper has become indispensable to the kitchen outfit of the hour It brings variety into the preparation of various appetizing dishes It gets the most out of meats in nutrition and availability and the economy in its use is a most important consideration

The little machine chops all kinds of food raw or cooked meats, fish, oysters, vegetables, fruits, bread cheese nuts—anything ground for substantial dishes or dainty desserts by the careful enthusiastic housewife

The several sizes of self-sharpening steel cutters give ample range, from pulverizing to coarse chopping They cut rapidly and uniformly—and do not mash it squeeze or grind the ingredients to be chopped.

Are not these the features YOU want in a Food Chopper? We thought so— and took the agency for the "Gem Emporium Prices" prevail, of course dont pay more for some unsatisfactory machine.

TO APPEAR AT CRAGMOR

Miss Nelson and Mr. Persinger Give Recital This Evening.

Miss Georgina Nelson, pianist, and Louis Persinger, violinist, will play at Cragmor sanitarium this evening as the guests of Manager Witkind. The program will include request numbers as well as several of the selections which proved so enjoyable at the concert recently given in this city by these two artists.

Miss Nelson's playing has placed her in the rank of the best pianists ever heard in this city, while Persinger's artistic work on the violin has delighted everyone who has heard him.

MISS PAINTER LEAVES

Miss Eleanor Painter, well known in this city, left yesterday afternoon for New York to resume her position as soloist in Dr. Parkhurst's church in that city and to become general understudy with Hammerstein's Manhattan Grand Opera company. Miss Painter formerly of this city has been visiting friends here. She has been heard here several times during her stay and at her recent recital at the Antlers, hot created a real sensation. Her unusual voice and magnetic personality give promise of a great future for her in the music world.

BABIES BENEFIT BY NEW SKIN DISCOVERY

Stops Itching Immediately, Soothes and Comforts the Little Ones.

A demonstration of the efficacy and entire harmlessness of poslam, the new skin discovery, is afforded when it is applied to the tender skin of infants who are tortured with rashes, chafings, scaly and crusted humors and other skin aggravations. Its effect is soothing, the itching stops at once, the skin heals and is quickly restored to normal condition.

In the various forms of skin troubles in both infants and adults, poslam produces beneficial results from the first application. Eczema, acne, herpes, rash, tetter, etc., yield readily to its remarkable curative properties. Occasional applications will quickly banish pimples, blotches and complexion blemishes and will relieve and cure itching feet, scaly scalp, humors, etc. Poslam can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggist's, particularly the Robinson Drug Co. and the Owl Drug Co., who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West 25th Street, New York City, will send a trial supply by mail to anyone who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in 24 hours.

PALMER MEMORIAL TO COST $50,000

WILL PROBABLY BE AN EQUESTRIAN STATUE.

Campaign for Funds Is to Be Carried on Throughout the State. Chisholm Is Chairman.

To expend at least $50,000 on a memorial in honor of the late General Palmer was the decision reached at a meeting of the Palmer Memorial association, at the residence of President W. F. Slocum of Colorado College. The question of the location of the statue is not decided, as there are so many suitable places, and as the directors desire to consult the sculptor, whoever he may be, before determining this point. The memorial will probably be in the form of an equestrian statue.

The campaign for funds will take definite form as soon as the chairman of the finance committee, R. W. Chisholm, returns from the east, where he will go in the near future. It is planned to divide the city and state into districts, each one of which will be looked after by a special committee.

The committee on the selection of a sculptor will have a meeting in about 10 days, at which some of the matters connected with this important part of the work will be gone over. It will be several months before this committee can decide a matter of such great importance.

All Want to Help.

John Dietrich, superintendent of schools, and W. P. Kinney of the board of education, submitted reports to the committee in which they outlined the aid that the schools expect to give. C. G. Collais stated that the labor unions of the city are ready and willing to do all in their power to further the work.

The various subcommittees are as follows:

Finance—R. W. Chisholm, chairman, J. A. Hayes, treasurer, E. W. Giddings, W. S. Jackson, George Foster Peabody, Clarence P. Dodge.

Bankers—W. S. Jackson, chairman, W. D. Thatcher, Pueblo, J. Arthur Connell, A. G. Sharp, Willis Armstrong.

Railroad Men—Colonel D. C. Dodge, Denver, chairman; A. D. Parker, president of Colorado and Southern; C. H. Schlacks, vice president of D. & R. G.; Frank Trumbull, former president of Colorado and Southern; George M. Vallery, general manager of Colorado Midland.

Public Schools—W. P. Kinney, chairman; John Dietrich, superintendent of public schools; J. R. Richards, principal of the High School; Mrs. E. A. Sawyer, Miss Mary McAllister, J. W. Scott, principal of Lowell school.

Selection of Statue—C. A. Baldwin, Maurice B. Biscoe of Denver, W. F. Douglas, Percy Hagerman, Irving W. Howbert, T. MacClaren, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Myers, Leslie J. Skelton, Mrs. William F. Slocum, Philip B. Stewart and N. Van den Arend.

Labor Unions—C. G. Collais, chairman; remainder of committee to be chosen at later date.

SHOULDN'T WEAR UNIFORM IN PROHIBITION PARADE

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Protest against the appearance of General Frederick D. Grant in the uniform of his rank in the United States army in the temperance parade in this city, last Sunday, was today sent to Secretary of War Dickinson by W. R. X—FORCES OF MODERN PROGRESS

By Frederic J. Haskin

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 9.—While it is impossible for a disinterested spectator of events in Korea to give an unqualified indorsement to the methods employed by Japan to acquire this country as a part of her empire, no one whose views are not biased by sympathy for the Korean people can fail to admit that Japan is doing much to improve an unprogressive country. Her military inefficiency made the former Hermit kingdom the certain prey of either Japan or Russia after the results of the Chino-Japanese war had eliminated China from the equation. Japan, having taken charge of affairs, without interference from western powers, after the war with Russia, inaugurated a number of reforms. Her policy is to colonize, modernize and Japanize Korea. She is proceeding vigorously to cary out that policy.

Judicial reform is one measure undertaken. Under the old regime the system of apprehending and punishing criminals was faulty in theory and a failure in fact. The Japanese have instituted a judicial system similar to that in most western countries. That it is at present inefficient as a guarantee of the rights of Koreans against encroachments by Japanese is indisputable, but since evils are the usual concomitants of reconstruction in all conquered countries, and abuses will doubtless be weeded out eventually. The residency-general statement that all Korean courts were nests of corruption and that the Japanese have eliminated bribery, is probably an exaggeration, but the foundations for improvement are laid. Connected with the reformation of the judiciary is the reorganization of the prison administration. Formerly the imprisonment of a Korean was not the lightest of punishments even in a country where torture was common and where sentences of death were passed for minor offenses. The cold of winter often killed prisoners in unheated jails with earthen floors. In summer epidemic diseases killed them in buildings where there was no sanitation, and no hospital system. Under the Japanese the prison system has been modernized.

Antiquated System.

Korea had existed as a national entity for some forty centuries without having contracted a public debt, when Japan intervened to effect her reformation. At present she is modernized in the matter of being under the burden of a national debt, which will surely increase, but her revenues are being increased and public improvements are progressing. Formerly the principal source of revenue was a land tax. This was collected irregularly in man loads of rice. The land was measured under an old-fashioned system. The unit was the area that can be plowed by one man with one ox in one day. Much land escaped taxation through the crookedness of local magistrates. The evil "squeeze" deprived the treasury of part of the money actually collected. Japan has inaugurated an improved system of surveying and collecting, and established taxes upon salt, marine products, tobacco and liquors to increase legitimate sources of revenue.

Before the Japanese occupation the currency system was insufficient to the needs of the times. A considerable part of the circulating medium consisted of copper "cash." This had one virtue. It had a value as a legal tender no higher than its intrinsic value as copper. This did not encourage counterfeiting. But its unwieldiness may be illustrated by citing the fact that when the Japanese army brought $5,000 worth of timber it was necessary to load a steamer with "cash" to make payment. At present there is a sound currency system based upon the gold standard. The unit is the yen, with subsidiary coins corresponding in size and value to Japanese coins. Japanese money is also legal tender, and a Korean Central bank has been established to facilitate the unification of the currency.

Bank Established.

Banking had been but little developed in Korea when Japan too charge. A system of Japanese banking is now in operation in the important Korean cities, Japanese occupying most of the important positions in banks subsidized by the Korean treasury. While Japan is geting the benefits of the system, business transactions are facilitated as a result of its establishment. Formerly, the promissory note in Korea was a piece of paper an inch broad and several inches long on which was written the sum due the date of payment and the name of payer and payee. This instrument was torn down the middle. Each party held a half, and when the creditor chose he could present his half and demand payment. Such notes passed as currency. The Japanese have substituted a modern system of money-loaning. A resultant evil to Koreans is that it is easy to borrow—at high rates of interest—and that payment is exacted with a rigidity unknown under the old regime. But Europeans and Japanese find business transactions simplified.

Korea presents to mariners a peculiarly rugged and dangerous coast fringed with many islands, outcroppings of sunken mountain ranges. When Korea was a hermit kingdom there was no effort to reduce the dangers of this coastline. In later days nothing was done to encourage a seaborne trade. Japan is improving the important harbors and both Chemulpo and Fusan are becoming up to date in equipment for handling commerce. The lighting of the coast was begun eight years ago as a result of the pressure brought by Japan upon the Korean government, which at that time had more than a fictitious existence. The present plan of improving the coast includes the erection of 6 lighthouses, light buoys, beacons and fog signals that will serve as guide posts to vessels approaching the Korean harbors. Most of the work has already been done.

Modern Roads

Road building was understood by the Koreans during ancient times. There were, however, few roads worthy of the name. The appropriations for road making were inadequate and the system of administering the funds was sodden with graft. It does not appear that the road-building projects for which Japan is responsible are free from the evil of extravagance which constitutes graft, but under the Japanese, Korea will have a system of roads that will facilitate agricultural development. That Koreans are not unresponsive to the movement is plain from the fact that many land owners have donated rights-of-way for highways.

The Japanese took control of the postal service, the telegraph system and the telephones of Korea under an "agreement" in 1905. The three services are not now self-supporting, but they are a decreasing burden, and as modern conveniences they are not unappreciated by Koreans. The three systems are being widely extended. Railways in Korea are creditable to Japanese enterprise. The beginnings of railroad building date back to the time when Americans secured concessions from the emperor of Korea, but the present standard gauge lines much better than the narrow gauge lines in Japan—represent the recent improvements which must be credited to Japan. American-built coaches and eight-wheeled freight cars are drawn by Baldwin locomotives, while in Japan proper the coaches are small, the freight cars are four-wheelers and the engines are diminutive.

Public buildings, in course of construction in Seoul, are being built upon modern plans and Korean bricks are being used. A government printing bureau is turning out stamps, bonds, and public document blanks in Seoul, and a few Koreans are employed in the establishment.

Reforestation Work.

Forestry undertakings, which must result in material benefits to Korea, are being pushed by Japanese enterprise through the Korean government. There are important timbered areas along the banks of the Yalu and Tumen rivers which have never been exploited commercially until recently. These forests are now being developed. A more important work which the Japanese have taken in hand is that of reforesting the denuded areas. Half of the total acreage of Korea is mountainous. Owing to indiscriminate timber-cutting, the mountains, except along the Yalu and Tu-men rivers, the Chilisan range, and the island of Quelpart, have been "skinned" of tree growth. The result is that there is a lack of water for irrigation in the dry season and great damage from floods during the rainy season. Japan has caused 83,300 acres of model forests to be established, and 17,000,000 trees have been imported from Japan and planted. To aid in the work of afforesting the mountains a course in forestry has been added to the school curriculum, that young Koreans may learn the rudiments of the science. Laws are to be enacted to preserve both public and private forests as protection against floods and landslides, and public lands are to be sold and leased under limitations in the interest of forestry.

Other Innovations

Model farms have been established to encourage agriculture and literature from the Washington department of agriculture is extensively used to disseminate information. Berkshire pigs are being introduced to supplant the Korean razor back, which resembles a cross between a jack rabbit and a wild boar. Chinese ducks, Belgian hares, Cochin China chickens, American upland cotton, European sugar beets and cattle from the British Isles, are down upon the program for introduction in Korea. It is proposed to institute training schools to revive the Korean arts of dyeing, weaving, metal work, pottery making, applied chemistry, carpentry and wheelwright work.

Sanitation and education were neglected by Korea when the country conducted its own affairs. Epidemics of cholera and typhus were fostered by the use of bad water and no means of fighting contagious diseases existed. Medical schools, water works, hospital and other much-needed improvements now existing or to be established, are to be credited in part to Japan.

The educational system of old Korea was poor. Japan is attempting to establish good public schools and normal schools, and the residency-general has encouraged mission schools by proclaiming a policy of freedom of religious teaching and giving registered mission schools a footing with public schools as to government aid.

That Korea, under the thumb of Japan, will be modernized and improved in many respects, is unquestionable, but when the improvement is completed it will probably be Japanese territory.

Tomorrow—The Fate of Korea.

XI.—The Vanguard of Reform.

WOULD HAVE BEEN DEAD

Says Temple Clark, of Pope Had It Not Been for Cardui, Now in Good Health.

Pope, Tenn.—"As the result of a fall from a horse, I suffered intense agony for about four years," writes Mrs. Temple Clark, of this place. "I was irregular and had falling feelings and other womanly trouble. At last I was induced to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me a great deal. I certainly believe if it had not been for Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught, I would have been dead, instead of having the blessing of health.

"I love a dollar, but I have never seen one I think as much of as I do of a bottle of Cardui. I could tell a great deal more and not get tired. I recommend it to all my friends, for I am sure it will cure others as it has me."

Remember that Cardui is a vegetable extract, composed of valuable medicinal ingredients, which build up vitality, tone up the nerves and strengthen the womanly constitution.

For over 50 years Cardui has been in successful use. Its merit is proven and known. Using it is no new experiment. It has stood the greatest of all tests the test of TIME.

NOTE—The Cardui Home Treatment for Women, consists of Cardui ($1), Thedford's Black-Draught (25c), or Velvo (50c), for the liver, and Cardui Antiseptic (50c). These remedies may be taken singly, by themselves, if desired, or three together, as a complete treatment for women's ills. ILLINOIS MAY TAX HARRIMAN'S ESTATE

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Although the late E. H. Harriman was not a resident of Illinois, his property in this state is said to be subject to the Illinois inheritance tax of 2 per cent. Attorney Walter K. Lincoln, representing Attorney General Stead, today secured from County Judge Rinaker an order appointing J. Scott Mathews to appraise the Harriman estate for levying the tax. It was argued that the holdings of the Harriman estate in the Illinois Central and the Chicago and Alton are subject to the tax.

REQUISITION ISSUED.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 28.—Governor John F. Shafroth today issued a requisition on the governor of Missouri for the return of Ulysses G. Mason, wanted in Sedgwick county on a charge of grand larceny. The charge consists of the theft of 200 cattle valued at about $10,000.

PUBLIC LIFE AND PERSONAL CHARACTER.

VIEWED in the light of standards which we have not yet entirely outgrown, the spectacle of the President of the United States delivering from the pulpit of a Mormon tabernacle a preachment on altruism and good manners would become an anomaly. The fact that it was thought nothing unusual when at Salt Lake Sunday Mr. Taft chose for the nonce to occupy the role of moral teacher is striking evidence of a change in the national attitude toward its public men which is one of the most encouraging and inspiring tendencies of the times.

We have not, as a nation, entirely freed ourselves from the idea that the reins of government—whether national, state, or municipal—are part of the spoils of politics, and for the very good reason that to a large, though steadily diminishing extent, they still are. Wherefore we continue in no little degree to view executives and lawmakers as simply politicians who have attained to their high offices strictly through political push or pull and who look upon themselves and their colleagues, and ultimately their party, as preferred creditors in the execution of the public trust. And, again, for the very good reason that to a large extent the facts justify it; witness even the recent speech of Mr. Taft urging the claims of party solidarity as superior to those of national or even sectional public interest.

HIGHER STANDARD OF SERIVCE. But, on the other hand, there has developed a tendency, constantly stronger, to demand that our public men shall be something more than mere politicians; to demand that they shall be in the largest sense the servants of the people; and, above all, that they shall be men in all that the word implies. The demand has reflected itself in higher types of public officials, but whether as cause or effect would be hard to say. President McKinley perhaps first set into strong motion the sentiment, which has since borne fruit throughout the land, that public office should carry with it the obligation of high citizenship and unimpeachable private character. McKinley's personality inspired the universal respect of his country, his lofty ideals and his beautiful home life exalted him even above his position as chief executive of the nation, and, by one of the immutable decrees of fate, his martyrdom, otherwise vain, served to enshrine in the heart of the nation the ideals which he so well exemplified.

The very antithesis of his predecessor in type, temperament and training, but one with him in idealism, Roosevelt, in straight-from-the-shoulder appeals for a higher standard of citizenship, for common honesty in every relation of life, for every virtue, in short, that makes or appears to make for permanent social progress, gave root to the seed which McKinley, by unassuming, probably unconscious example, had implanted. Roosevelt, fortified by an impregnable personal popularity, accustomed the country to look upon its President in a new and larger light. He invested his high office and in so doing every other public office with the responsibility of moral leadership.

Typical of the same conception which Roosevelt at once championed and represented, Bryan in his lectures and writings has played a prominent part in creating the sentiment that public life involves a larger obligation than mere political leadership; and in recent years the echo of this demand has called to the front such men as Hughes, Heney, Johnson, Moran and many others. At the same time, unfortuntely, it has raised to eminence men like Jerome and Weaver, who have shown themselves to be typical of nothing more than the effervescence of public clamor.

CHANGED VIEW OF PRESIDENT. So it has come about that the nation unconsciously looks upon the President as a man who is, in the most comprehensive sense of the term, the foremost citizen of his country. He is something more than the man whose political activity and whose demonstrated capability as a political leader have been rewarded by elevation at the hands of his own party to the highest office in the land. He is something more than the head of the executive branch of the Government, under oath to serve his country without regard to politics, geography, religion or any other form of internal division. He is looked upon as representative of the highest aspiration of private morality and public citizenship, who stands for and, if he chooses, may constitute himself an aggressive champion of the larger things of life—the things that make for righteousness.

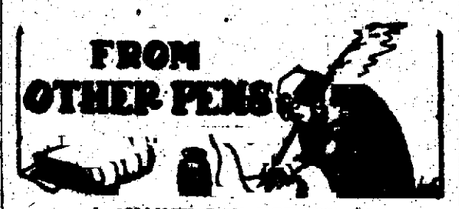

And in this view the President receives respectful attention when he chooses to divert from questions of public policy to those of personal character; when, for example, in a temple dedicated to a faith alien to his own, Mr. Taft speaks of courtesy and charity as cardinal principles in the doctrine of the brotherhood of man. And, like the address of his predecessor from the same platform four years ago, the President's sermon will bear fruit. His audience, by virtue of his position, is nation-wide; his remarks on any subject, similarly, have behind them the weight of character and achievement, and, his address on this occasion, considering in conjunction place and theme, was happy in that it dealt with essentials, and, as a commonsense appeal for a better world here and now, went beyond creed and dogma.

"HIGH DEATH RATE AT COLORADO SPRINGS."

THIS headline on a news story from this city a few days ago appeared in a Denver afternoon paper. The story itself was concerning the first monthly report of City Physician O. R. Gillett and mentioned that the death rate in Colorado Springs for the months of July and August was exceptionally low—perhaps lower, exclusive of tuberculosis cases, than any other city in the United States could show for the same period. Following that was a brief statement to the effect that in computing the death rate from month to month in this city the health officers, who are keepers of mortuary statistics, figure the total death rate and then, in justice to the city, the rate exclusive of the deaths of those who come here in the last stages of consumption and die soon afterward.

It was the intention to convey the meaning that, leaving out so-called imported cases which should not, in fairness to the city, be figured in its regular death rate, Colorado Springs had, as is usually the case, fewer deaths per thousand inhabitants than almost any other town or city in the country. In spite of this the misleading headline appeared just the same. It did not bear out the substance of the story but that did not seem to matter to the misguided headline writer; here was a chance to rap Colorado Springs and the opportunity was not overlooked.

We have never quite been able to understand why certain Denver papers delight in knocking Colorado Springs and doing it on every possible occasion. The two cities have little in common and therefore there is no ground for jealousy. Certainly they are not rivals in the generally accepted sense of that term. Denver has certain advantages which we never can hope to have and we flatter ourselves that we have advantages that it will never be Denver's good fortune to possess. This being the case, why in the name of commonsense do the yellows of the capital city rap us on every possible occasion, and even go so far as to make an opportunity where none exists? Wouldn't it be better for the two cities to work hand in hand? Colorado is large enough for both—large enough for a half dozen Denvers for that matter. The state is young and is growing rapidly and every town and city within its boundaries should co-operate in making it in every sense one of the greatest in the Union. As far as Colorado Springs is concerned it is willing, and always has been, to give Denver its dues. It is a great city with a great future and we rejoice to see it grow and prosper. What helps Denver helps us and vice versa.

A CHANCE FOR NOTORIETY.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

The Duke of the Abruzzi says he has broken the record for mountain climbing in the Himalayas, having reached the top of Bright Pic, 24,890 feet. Surely this is not going to be allowed to pass unchallenged. Can't somebody be found who will say that the duke never left the chateau at the foot of the hill?

THE COOK-PEARY ISSUE.

From the Kansas City Star.

The Arctic Club of America has rendered a real service by taking an official stand with reference to the conflicting claims of Doctor Cook and Lieutenant Peary, and its stand is so eminently fair, so obviously sensible, that it should go far toward adjusting public opinion for the time being.

The Arctic club seeks only to honor the discoverer of the north pole. Pending a conclusive showing of both explorers, the club is bound to accept the statements of each. And this acceptance gives the presumptive honor to Doctor Cook, whose claim of discovery antedates that of Lieutenant Peary.

Inasmuch as the Danish government, which was first to receive either of the explorers, and which is the only government that has officially passed upon the claims of either, has formally accepted Doctor Cook's representations as true, certainly Doctor Cook's own country is bound to offer unofficial acceptance pending the explorer's arrival.

The Arctic club's present position is, in short, that Doctor Cook discovered the pole and that Lieutenant Peary reached it a year later.

MR. HARRIMAN AND HIS WORK.

From Harper's Weekly.

What does it profit a man if he gain a railroad empire such as the world has never before known, if thereby he wrecks his own health?—New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

It profits a man to do his work in the world whatever it is, and whatever the cost to himself. That is what he is here for. It profits a soldier to fight his battle through even though he dies in the moment of victory. In so far as Mr. Harriman's work as an organizer and builder of railroads merely made him excessively rich, it did not pay him to wreck his health in the doing of it, but in so far as it was a work of civilization and for the improvement of the material conditions of the American people, it may reasonably be held to be worth what he sacrificed to accomplish it. He has often been quoted as saying that the accumulation of money for his own benefit never had any attraction for him, and he would probably have agreed that to leave behind him a fortune of a hundred millions and upward was an exploit of doubtful benefit to anyone. But he liked money for the sake of the power it gave him. He certainly liked power—loved it, but he seemed to be fully persuaded that his use of it was enormously beneficial to the public. No doubt he loved power overmuch; no doubt his confidence that he could use it in unlimited measure to the profit of the American people was not always borne out by results. Nevertheless he accomplished great things, and had in him great purposes that remain unfulfilled. For his death at 61 the prevailing sentiment must be one of deep regret. There was no more interesting man anywhere in sight, no mind whose workings concerned more people or more interesting projects, of whose course was followed with deeper attention. It is fairly to lament for society's sake that his end should have come so prematurely, leaving many things still undone that would have added to his fame and embellished the record of his usefulness.

TAFT ON CORPORATION AND INCOME TAXES.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

The President's Denver speech, aside from its discussion of the corporation tax on its merits or demerits, has furnished light on the administration's general position and has made certain obscure points quite clear to the public.

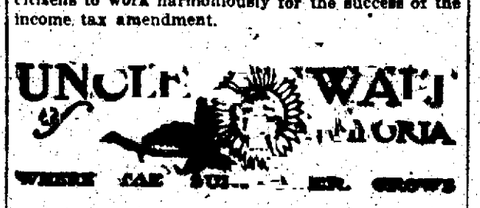

Mr. Taft states explicitly that he favors an income tax amendment because in those of stress and need the income tax would be one of the essential instruments by which we could collect a large amount of money to meet exigencies." In ordinary and peaceful times, in the President's view, income taxation of the direct kind, taxation reaching the citizen as such, is inadvisable first, because it might conflict with the maintenance of the protective policy, and, second, because it would arouse strenuous opposition by its "inquisitorial features" and its temptation to perjury.

The obvious and practically important comment which this statement suggests is that the states where there is considerable opposition to the pending amendment should find therein, in so far as the opposition is honest and not narrowly selfish, a good deal of reassurance. Objection to income taxation as a normal and permanent feature has no application to a policy which treats income taxation as a reserve for use in national emergencies.

However, if the amendment is ratified the President, as he announced in the Denver address, intends to take immediate advantage of it solely to this extent—the removal of what he admits to be a serious weakness in the corporation tax law by incorporating a tax on corporate bonds. He frankly explains that bonds were omitted because a tax on interest due to corporate bondholders would probably be unconstitutional under supreme court precedents. The adoption of the amendment would enable Congress to reach bondholders as well as stockholders and thereby make the tax more equitable and less injurious to the corporate form of industry.

During the discussion of the corporation tax this aspect of the question was not properly presented, and it is helpful to intelligent treatment of the whole matter to have the additional information. After the amendment has been ratified and the new tariff has been thoroughly tested as a producer of revenue the question whether the best corporation tax is not decidedly inferior to a fair and reasonably progressive income tax—a tax that does not discriminate against corporations as such, that does not gratuitously favor partnerships and individual proprietors will demand full and earnest consideration.

Meantime the President, by his candid and lucid speech, has made it easier for all public-spirited citizens to work harmoniously for the success of the income tax amendment.

I do not like the man who searches his mind for caustic things to say, about the preachers and the churches; he grows more common every day. The cynic is a scurvy tutor, whose head and creed are made of wood; he puts up little gods of pewter, and says that they "are just as good." He thinks that triumphs he is winning, and he emits a joyous laugh, if he can knock the underpinning from Faith, that is our rod and staff. He is a poor and tawdry victor, who would o'er dead religions walk; the church still lives, though fools have kicked her, since first she builded on a rock. I hear the mellow church bells ringing a welcome to that calm retreat; I hear the choir's sweet voices singing an anthem, reverent and sweet. And well I know the gentle pastor is pointing out the path to wend, and urging men to let the Master be evermore their guide and friend. And he, like all good men, is reaching for better, and for higher things; and so the message of his preaching—unlike the cynic's comfort brings.

THE SANCTUARY.

WALT MASON.

Copyright 1909, by George Matthew Adams.

The Daily Chit-Chat

The little mother was slowly recovering from a nervous breakdown.

"Make her think there hasn't really been anything the matter with her. That's the most important thing now," said the doctor.

We promised we would and, of course, made every effort to do it. Then one day my lady Sanstact came a-calling.

She greeted the little mother with all the heartiness of her left-handed affection, inspected her thoroughly and then proceeded cheerfully:

"How you have fallen away."

Ten pounds of pills and powders could hardly efface that ounce of tactlessness.

A twin sister—mentally, not actually of that woman went to see a friend who had nervous prostration and found her in a bad spell of hiccoughs.

Immediately she remembered a similar case. She had known a girl once who got to hiccoughing and "they tried everything to stop her sugar and frightening her and thumping her on the back and everything and it didn't do a bit of good.

"Finally they took her to the hospital, but they couldn't do anything there and she got worse and worse and finally she died."

The girl with the nervous prostration and the hiccoughs promptly added hysterics to her other complaints.

The doctor said he would not treat the case if that woman were allowed to see his patient again.

An unbelievable case of tactlessness, you say. Yes, but it actually happened and there are in this world a great many such people who somehow always manage to say the most discouraging thing, and they do an incalculable amount of harm.

And the queerest thing about it is that they are almost always well-meaning and would be heartbroken if they knew the trouble they made.

The habit seems to be like certain diseases whose victims never realize they are afflicted with them.

Are you ever guilty? Not of such blatantly tactless things as those I have quoted, but any lesser mistakes along that line?

Do you ever say, "How tired you look?" or "What's the matter. Aren't you feeling well?" or "Haven't you grown thin?" or any of those thoughtless little things that may be far from little to those who hear them?

There is no need to lie, but if you cannot say, "You are looking well," why comment on personal appearance at all? RUTH CAMERON.

ters of like typical significance. All impersonations in this division are by the United Holland societies.

The third division, colonial, was treated with greater amplitude than any of the others. Twenty-one floats, depicted as many scenes and legends, from the reception of Schuyler's Indians to the pursuit of Ichabod Crane by the headless horseman of Sleepy Hollow. Impersonations and escorts were by the English societies, representing British rule, at the front; the Society of the Colonial Wars, the Junior Order of American Mechanics, the Patriotic Order of Sons of America, the United Irish societies, the Sons of the Revolution, the American Continentals, lineal descendants of Paulding and Van Wart, the captors of Andre, the Order of Cincinnati and a host of lesser organizations.

Last came the modern period, led by the title car, "United States," but even here the general tone was retrospective. A float representing the first Erie canal boat a reproduction of a hand engine in use before the introduction of Croton water and another of an old Broadway sleigh, before the days of subways, trolleys, elevated, or even horse cars, were typical.

The historical parade will be repeated in Brooklyn on Friday, October 1.

FOR GREATER COLO. CITY

Many Improvements Suggested at Enthusiastic Mass Meeting Citizens Give Addresses.

The principal feature of the public mass meeting at Mack's hall last night was the enthusiasm displayed by an audience numbering nearly 1,000 men and women in support of the suggestions advanced by the various speakers for a new and greater Colorado City. Those present were asked to give their ideas regarding the improvements contemplated. Some difference of opinion was expressed as to converting the Bancroft school into a city hall and transforming the grounds into a park, several stating that the present building, used for the offices of the city, is satisfactory.

Among the speakers of the evening were Senator J. B. Stephen, Mayor T. D. Armstrong, J. P. Jackson, former city attorney, F. F. Schreiber, county assessor; the Rev. Duncan Lamont, the Rev. V. O. Penley, Judge J. N. Richards and N. B. Hames. Senator Stephen said he was opposed to building a new city hall, but would like to see the Bancroft school building removed and a park established on this site with a bandstand similar to the one at Stratton park. In the summer the city should maintain a bureau of information for tourists. He placed particular stress upon having the body of Zebulon Pike removed and buried on the hill beyond Fairview cemetery, and a monument erected at this place. In his opinion the best location for the new school house is in the vicinity of North Fifth street and Monroe avenue. He asserted that the school children of Colorado City should enjoy the same privileges as those of Colorado Springs in having modern school buildings.

The mayor reviewed in a general way the improvements that he thought should be made, stating that the city needs 20 blocks of sewers, and Colorado avenue needs to be paved, and advocated the removal of the Bancroft school and the building of a new municipal structure on this site.

He also pointed out the necessity of having public comfort stations. Arensdale should have a park, water mains and numerous fire plugs, he said, and the cemetery needs reseeding and sodding.

J. P. Jackson, former city attorney, advised caution being used in spending the city funds, calling attention to the fact that the improvements planned would cost more than the present administration could afford. His advice was received with much laughter.

F. F. Schreiber complimented the mayor and city council for the excellent work that has been done in the city, and expressed himself as being heartily in accord with the new movement.

Some action will be taken at the meeting of the council next Monday evening regarding the plans discussed last night.

Several beautiful musical numbers were rendered by the Misses Abbie Kamber, Alice Clark, Mary L. Sweeney, Mabel Bar and Mr. Alvan Adams.

CASE OF DOG EAT DOG

Jerome, Out for Re-election, Makes Scathing Attack on Judge Gaynor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—District Attorney Jerome, who is making an independent fight for re-election at the approaching municipal election, and who filed his petition today, issued a statement tonight attacking Justice William J. Gaynor, a candidate for the mayoralty, whose friends believe that he will be the Tammany nominee.

Mr. Jerome describes Justice Gaynor as a "political charlatan" and as "that most abhorrent product, a political judge, whose so-called personal liberty decisions have served as a protection to lawbreakers."

FLIGHTS AT GOTHAM AGAIN POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—A high wind prevented Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss from making flights in their aeroplanes today. To satisfy the curiosity of the crowd, the aeroplanes were wheeled out of their sheds and photographed from every possible angle by newspaper photographers.

"I wouldn't fly over the buildings of the city if they deeded to me everything that I passed over," was the remark made by Curtiss as he left the island.

MANHOOD GREATEST NATIONAL RESOURCE

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—An attack on the liquor industry by Rev. Joseph H. Crooker of Boston, president of the Unitarian Temperance society, a denunciation of high churchmen, and a plea for a fund of $100,000 to further the work of the Unitarian Sunday School society, were features of the second day's session of the Unitarian church conference in session here. "To conquer the drink habit," said Mr. Crooker, "is to conserve the greatest of our national resources manhood."

MANY DEER HUNTERS

Scores of Colorado Springs Men Leave for Mountains on Annual Outing. Season Opens Friday.

Out from Colorado Springs and every city of Colorado, sportsmen are pouring, armed for the onslaught which, for 10 days, beginning Friday, will place the life of deer in peril. If every hunter who has secured a hunting license from the county clerk's office here brings back the one deer with horns to which he is entitled by law, the fleet-footed, antlered herd which roam the hills will be thinned out considerably within the next two weeks.

Yesterday, 42 hunting licenses were issued here, breaking all previous records and making a total of 621 up to last night. Hunters are leaving the city in scores. Yesterday's noon Colorado Midland train carried 60 hunters from this city to Rifle and Newcastle. Scores of others left last night.

Ben Tucker of this city, his brother, Austin Tucker of Denver, and Gordon McCorkell, left last night for Routt county. Deputy Sheriff Burno and a party of county and city officials will leave this morning to hunt in Routt county. James and Sam Davis, Tod Smith and Claude Beverly leave today in a wagon for Lost Park in the Tarryall country. W. L. Fair, proprietor of the Pioneer livery at Manitou, will join a large party of six leaving today or tomorrow for a hunting trip in the hills. Justice of the Peace A. J. Russell of Colorado City is a member of a party that goes out today.

Dr. W. H. Hoagland and a party of friends have been fishing in the White River country, in Routt county, for several days, and each expects to get his deer when the season opens. Robert Miller, W. G. Snider, H. C. Loesch and several other residents of this city compose another party who went to Routt county a few days ago on a two weeks' hunting and fishing trip.

VACUUM CLEANING SYSTEM AT THE ANTLERS HOTEL

W. S. Dunning, manager of the Antlers, has installed a vacuum cleaning system throughout the hotel at a cost of $2,500. The system is one whereby a direct connection is made from the hose on the cleaner with large iron pipes running throughout the building, so that no dirt escapes before it has been forced into enormous steel tanks in the basement. Instead of the old-fashioned methods of sweeping the floors and rugs, the new process does the work more effectively and in less time.

MRS. CAROLINE RIGGS DIES.

Mrs. Caroline Riggs aged 68 years, died at her residence, 819 East Cache la Poudre street, early yesterday morning. The funeral will be held from the residence this afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Rev. C. B. Wilcox officiating. The burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

CLAUDE SACHS SELLS OUT

Disposes of His Interest in Mining Investor and Goes to New York City to Live.

Claude Sachs, who for several years was mining editor of The Colorado Springs Gazette, and who for the last two years has been a resident of Denver, has sold his interest in the Mining Investor and removed to New York city. Mr. Sach's interest was purchased by his former business associates, W. S. Tarbell, J. W. Crapsey, F. C. Wilder and J. E. Sylvester, Jr.

The Mining Investor was published in Colorado Springs for about 10 years, and all of those interested in the transaction are former residents of this city and well known here, with the exception of Mr. Sylvester, who, previous to the removal of the Mining Investor to Denver, was its agent in that city. The other men interested were all at one time connected with the editorial or business staffs of The Gazette. Mr. Tarbell assumes the position of editor and manager of the Mining Investor.

Mr. Sachs has become associated with the H. A. Riedel Investment company of Denver, which is interested in large mining enterprises in Colorado and elsewhere, and has just financed a large mine and smelter consolidation in this state. Mr. Sachs will be the eastern representative of this consolidation with headquarters in New York city.

CANNON TO LECTURE

Will Speak at Meeting of Woman's Club This Afternoon. Food Conditions to Be Investigated.

At a meeting of the Woman's club, to be held in the San Luis school this afternoon at 3 o'clock, the principal speaker will be Wilbur F. Cannon, state pure food and drug commissioner. Mr. Cannon will lecture on the abuses of the food and drugs act, with special emphasis on the violations of the law in this city.

Among the matters to which Mr. Cannon will call attention are the shipping of oysters, the manner in which fruit is kept by some of the retail dealers of the city, and the possible adulterations of foods. In illustrating his lecture, Mr. Cannon will use an electric fan, by which he will diffuse various odors and flavors over the room. There will be shown 40 or 50 samples of "condensed" cream, face lotions and headache powders and syrups, which are fakes.

Commissioner Cannon intends to send two or three inspectors to this city in the near future in order to check up on violations of the law.

"I merely intend to enforce the law as it now stands, in order that this city may be one of the cleanest of the state," he said.

MORE MEMBERS FOR GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION

A large number of new members have been added to the El Paso County Good Roads association as a result of the campaign now being waged to interest everybody in the county in this important matter. That the outlying districts of the county are stirred up over the necessity of having highways second to none is also evident from the reports which are coming in from the members of the committee in Peyton, Fountain and other towns. Mr. Cheese, member for Peyton, says that nearly everyone in his district is boosting for the movement.

Secretary Alva W. Henderson of the Chamber of Commerce said last night that a large number in this city alone had signified their intention of becoming active members of the association. With enthusiastic co-operation thus guaranteed, the good roads campaign may be said to be already certain of definite results in the near future.

WANTS CHILDREN BACK

Mrs. Rumsey Sues for Divorce in Effort to Get Her Daughters Who Were Kidnaped Sunday.

Alleging cruelty and asking for the custody of her two daughters, aged 3 and 9 years, Mrs. Laura Rumsey yesterday filed suit in the district court for a divorce from Carl E. Rumsey. Mrs Rumsey also alleges that Rumsey kidnaped the children Sunday and is now in hiding in either Nevada or California. Monday she swore out a warrant for his arrest, charging him with the theft of a pair of shoes. The couple were married in Grand Junction, December 22, 1897.

CONFERENCE BACKS EWING

Colorado College Graduate Is to Be Sent as Missionary to Buenos Ayres.

At a meeting of the Colorado College missionary conference last night it was decided to send A. G. Ewing as a missionary to Buenos Ayres, South America, in January, 1910. Mr. Ewing was the recipient of the Ewing fund of $850, subscribed last year. Before his departure, Mr. Ewing will make a tour of the Colorado colleges, and will be at Colorado College during the week of October 24 to 31.

At the same meeting Professor H. F. Smith was made chairman of the committee to plan the missionary institute to be held here in co-operation with the Layman's Missionary conference next March. These layman's meetings will be held simultaneously in various cities of the United States, and Colorado College expects to take a leading part in the meeting in this city.

DID NOT REFER TO A "CITY OFFICIAL," SAYS HALL

In the report in Monday's Gazette of the mass meeting at the First Presbyterian church Sunday night, Secretary C. B. Hall of the Y. M. C. A. was quoted as saying a certain city official connected with the police department had been seen drinking whisky in a Colorado Springs drug store. Mr. Hall says that he did not intend to use the term "a city official;" in his remark he referred to a member of the police force and not to the head of any department of the city government.

What the Press Agents Say

WHATEVER YOU WANT, THE MAJESTIC BILL HAS IT

Do you want to be amused, to laugh, laugh, laugh? Go to the Majestic this week and see John J. Black and company in "The Main Guy," and hear the laughing song. It's as contagious as cholera. Or see Scott and Davis in their novel and inimitable automobile scene? The current offering is distinctively a laughing show and one's risibility is excited into violent paroxysms of joy or cajoled into quieter manifestations of mirth from the time the opening number gets busy down to the closing of this the most popular program the house has yet had.

Do you want to be amazed? To see feats that you would say were impossible if someone tried to tell you about them? Then go to the Majestic this week and see Sados, the English juggler, who is beyond question the greatest artist in his line performing before the public today. Royalty take off their hats to Sados. At 13 years of age he appeared by special request before King Edward and his court. The past year he performed before a royal audience in the palace of King Alfonso of Spain in Madrid. The audience quickly warms up to Sados as he develops marked deftness and abundantly applaud the mechanical ingenuity of his capital climax.

HARRY TYLER

Do you want to hear a magnificent musical program? Then hear Harry Tyler and his $1,500 xylophone. Mr. Tyler not only has the finest xylophone in the world, but is everywhere acknowledged to be the finest xylophone player in the entire country. Every audience thus far has given him an ovation. This master of melody evokes from the charmed wood, music that is now popular, now classic, now sweetly appealing, often touching the soul-reaching realms of harmony, and the splendid receptions accorded him are a deserved tribute to his matchless style and execution.

In Georgia Davis and J. Watson Scott there is a versatility of accomplishment. Miss Davis is not only a musical artist, but an artist in dressing her act. Her costumes are in perfect taste and harmony; her voice a cultivated soprano. You will have to go to grand opera to hear anything finer.

Carita Day dances almost as much with her eyes as with her toes, and she uses them most cleverly. In her terpsichorean evolutions, sometimes known as buck and wing dances, she is supported by Barnes and Hunter, young men who are also past masters of the art.

A sensation! A dream of artistic motion, describes this act.

Whatever you crave in the way of entertainment, the exceedingly novel bill at the Majestic this week will satisfy you.

But you will not be satisfied to see it only once.

"M'FADDEN'S FLATS"

Like the proverbial babbling brook, that rousing and easily best of all musical farce comedies, "McFadden's Flats," seems to go on forever. This season Messrs. Barton and Wiswell of New York present the piece with an entire new book and cast. Although in years past the farce was considered great, it is safe to say that this season is far superior than heretofore. This spectacular fantasy or vaudeville gaiety excels in magnificent magnitude and splendor any previous production. It harbors more capable comedians, has a concourse of singing and dancing girls who know how to wear stunning costumes in bewitching style, contains humor that is fresh and up-to-date and song hits and euphonious ensemble numbers that should appeal to the most critical ear. The fun is hilarious and continuous and the scenic adornment is of an elaborate and pretentious nature.

Only the title remains of that frisky, refreshing, laugh-producing farce, "McFadden's Flats" and when the curtain goes up on the new "Flats" at the Opera House Saturday, matinee and night, a bright, breezy atmosphere will prevail. The pretty scenic surroundings that each act is beautiful with can not fail to please the eye and set off the beautiful costumes worn by this excellent company. There are specialties that go with a dash, girls that wear bewitching gowns and unique makeups, comedians that can dance, sing and be funny without resorting to old-time material, novelties that are brilliant and in fact everything that is different and best in a comedy way that will be found this year with "McFadden's Flats."

SCENE FROM "M'FADDEN'S FLATS"
Which Comes to the Opera House Saturday Afternoon and Night.

The prices are, at the matinee, 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults; evening prices are 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.00. Seats tomorrow.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS"

Frederic Thompson's "Polly of the Circus" will be the attraction at the Opera House Tuesday evening only. All the life of Polly, a young circus rider, has been spent under the round top and in the circus car. She knows no world not covered by canvas, nor did her mother. When the play begins the circus tents are pitched on the commons adjoining the church and parsonage in a small town. This causes scandal in the burg and the pillars of the church gather at the parsonage to protest to the minister against the sacrilege. Polly is injured by a fall from her horse and during the circus is carried into the minister's house. A motley crew of clowns, riders, acrobats and canvasmen flock to the parsonage where they are well received by the young minister, much to the disgust of the deacons of the church. The minister agrees to care for the girl until she is well enough to return to the circus and he does care for her. He soon learns that the little circus rider is ignorant. He begins instructing her. He weeds out her wonderful growth of circus slang and teaches her to read and write and makes her so well contented with her new home that when she recovers she does not return to her former sawdust world.

Eleven months pass by, and the minister and Polly come to love each other. But the tongue of scandal is wagging in the village and the deacons call upon the parson and demand that he send the girl away. He refuses, but Polly decides to go away. She does and joins the circus. A month later the circus again comes to the town, and when Polly attempts to mount her horse she swoons and is caught in the sheltering arms of the minister. The final curtain falls as the circus winds its way out of the village, leaving Polly and the minister gazing at the departing caravan. The circus scenes are true to life and a novelty, such as Mr. Thompson is noted for.

ECZEMA DEFIED SIX HOSPITALS

Doctors of Two Continents Could Make No Impression on Torturing Skin Disease — All Treatments Failed for Nineteen Years.

THEN CUTICURA CURED SWIFTLY AND EASILY

"I contracted my disease at school in London, England, when I was fourteen years old — I am now thirty-three. My father put me under the care of our family physician who diagnosed my disease as itch. But after several months' treatment without receiving any benefit, I was advised to go to a hospital. I attended the —— Hospital, London. Then and on two other occasions, without my getting any benefit, they treated me for eczema. My next attempt was trying different ointments from doctors and druggists. Then I tried patent medicines, including —— and ——.

"I passed examinations for government situations but was finally rejected at the medical examinations. After three attempts to enlist in the British army I succeeded at last but was discharged on account of my eczema. The disease was confined to face, arms and legs, my face being actually raw at times. I came to America thirteen years ago, but my face became worse, if possible. When in New York City I was advised to go to —— Hospital, whence I was sent to the —— Hospital in Brooklyn. I was put under the care of Professor ——, but this also added to the number of unsuccessful attempts. I returned home to England and tried the —— Hospital, Liverpool, the —— Hospital, London, also the world-famed London —— Hospital, but without getting cured. I came back to America five years ago. I had overlooked the Cuticura Remedies dozens of times, but three months ago I decided to give Cuticura a trial and I can safely say I am cured of one of the most torturing skin diseases a man ever had. Richard Curley, New Canaan, Conn., Jan. 10, '09."

"I am familiar with Mr. Curley's case and his cure and believe his statement to be true. John F. Burke, New Canaan, Conn."

News of Local Courts

WOMAN FAINTS LEAVING WITNESS STAND

A nervous wreck as the result of trouble leading up to a suit for damages alleged to have been inflicted while Mrs. F. E. Beard was tenant of her husband's property, Mrs. George A. Miller, 1716 Wood avenue, fainted yesterday morning as she left the witness stand in Justice A. P. Toombs' court. She was attended by Dr. R. W. Reasoner and moved to her home in the city ambulance.

The suit against Mrs. Beard was brought by George A. Miller, a bookkeeper employed at the Hassell Iron works. According to testimony in the case, Mrs. Beard offered to replace the damaged articles, but the suit was brought while her son was ill in bed and she herself was in Louisiana. The court suggested that the suit be compromised.

HARRY KELCHNER FINED FOR SPEEDING AUTOMOBILE

Harry Kelchner, chauffeur of the auto that turned turtle at the top of "Dead Man's" hill on West Huerfano street, last Wednesday morning, was yesterday morning fined $10 and costs [illegible]. The fine and all the costs except $3 were remitted by Police Magistrate Clyde L. Starrett, owing to mitigating circumstances. The testimony showed that the youth was not intentionally speeding the machine and that he has always had a good reputation.

MORRIS BOLTAN ASSIGNS PROPERTY TO TRUST COMPANY

Morris Boltan, for the last season manager of the Star ranch, a well-known tourist resort near Colorado Springs, yesterday assigned his property at the ranch to the Colorado Title and Trust company of this city for the benefit of his creditors. Boltan places his debts at $1,964. His assets consist of a few horses and some personal property at the ranch. He claims that his ill health has prevented him from making an attempt to earn the money to pay his debts.

EUNICE F. GREEN ASKS COURT FOR DIVORCE

Eunice F. Green yesterday filed suit in the district court for a divorce from her husband, George F. Green, formerly well known in local political circles, alleging cruelty and drunkenness. She asks for a division of property, $100 attorney's fees, $50 a month temporary alimony, and the custody of their 9-year-old son. The couple were married here in 1897.

TO CONDEMN LAND FOR CRYSTAL PARK ROAD

The Crystal Park company yesterday began condemnation proceedings in the district court against a strip of land 25 feet wide and 890 feet long, owned by the Jacob Becker estate. The plaintiffs allege that the land is necessary to the construction of the Crystal Park road from Manitou to Crystal park.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANTS

A verdict was awarded to the defendants in the replevin suit of Kate P. Graves against Andrew and A. S. Wilson for the recovery of two horses, in the county court yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Graves claimed that she bought the horses at an auction sale some time ago. The Wilsons said that the horses were bought by a man named Magee and sold to them. Mrs. Graves and the Wilsons are ranchers in the eastern part of El Paso county.

CHARGE OF CRUELTY HAS BEEN DISMISSED

Juvenile Judge J. E. Little has dismissed the charge of cruelty against T. A. Patterson, 938 South Tenth street, who was charged with maltreating his 10-year-old-son, Harry. Patterson is in ill health and the child has been sent to the state home for neglected children.

DES MOINES WINS RAG BY 2 POINTS

CAPTURES WESTERN LEAGUE PENNANT IN CLOSE RACE.

Sioux Drop Two Games and Lose Chance for Championship. Omaha Is Third.

DES MOINES, Sept. 28.—Des Moines today won the Western league pennant by its victory over Lincoln, 5 to 3. In order for Des Moines to win the pennant, however, it was necessary for Sioux City to drop two games to Omaha, which it did today.

Tonight 3,000 fans celebrated the pennant victory with a street parade.

Owner Higgins said tonight he would not drop baseball now, and would not transfer the team, as he had stated several weeks ago.

"I will give Des Moines as good a team next year if they want one," he said.

Omaha winds up in third place, with a percentage of .553. Topeka is fourth, with .510; Wichita, .464; Denver, .460; Lincoln, .403, and Pueblo last, with .335.

The flag goes to Des Moines by a margin of two points, the closest pennant race in the history of the Western league. Des Moines' percentage is .612 and Sioux City's is .610, with Omaha third. The season closed today. Score:

										R.	H.	E.
Des Moines	0	0	0	0	1	4	0	0	*—	5	5	1
Lincoln	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3—	3	13	3

Batteries—Lange and Lewis; Ryan and Nunnamaker.

TOPEKA CLOSES VICTORIOUS

TOPEKA, Sept 28.—The Western league season closed here today with Topeka taking both games of the double-header from Denver. Score:

LANGFORD PUTS DIXIE KID AWAY IN FIFTH

BOSTON, Sept 28.—Sam Langford of Boston took five rounds to defeat the Dixie Kid, a negro, of California, tonight.

The Californian was much lighter, but by clever ducking and blocking, was able to avoid most of Langford's terrific swings and in the third round had the Bostonian worried by a series of body punches and jabs in the face which stopped Langford partially. In the fifth Langford sent his man to the floor once, and as the bell rang drove him in a heap into his corner with a heavy body blow. Before the bell rang for the sixth round, the Kid's seconds threw up the sponge.

PENNANT WON BY THE BUCCANEERS

NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO PIRATES.

Pittsburg Can't Lose Rag—Manager Clarke Gets Purse of $900 From Fans.

PITTSBURG, Sept 28.—The Pittsburg baseball club today clinched the 1909 pennant of the National league. Although the local team was defeated by New York, 13 to 2, Philadelphia's victory over Chicago assured the pennant for the Pittsburg club. Should Chicago win every game from now until the close of the season, and Pittsburg lose every game it plays, the local team would still be in the lead at the close of the season by a half game. After the game the crowd rushed for the local players' bench, but they had retired to their dressing rooms.

Before the game, Manager Fred Clarke of the Pittsburg team was presented with a purse of gold amounting to a little more than $900, the gift of local baseball enthusiasts. Score:

										R.	H.	E.
Pittsburg	1	0	0	1	0	0	1	1	5—	9	12	3
New York	0	4	5	0	0	0	0	2	2—13	13	2

Batteries—Willis, Phillippe, Brandon, Moore and Gibson; O'Connor, Ames and A. Wilson.

FLYNN MAY FIGHT PAPKE AT PUEBLO

PUEBLO, Sept. 28.—Arrangements were virtually completed this morning whereby Jim Flynn and Billy Papke will meet on October 14, during the state convention of the Elks. Flynn signified his willingness this morning, and telegrams were sent to Papke. It is almost a certainty that the latter will consent. If the match is made it will be refereed by E. W. Dickerson.

SPORTING NOTES

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept 28.—The Indianapolis team of the American association left today for Cuba, to begin a series of games with Havana next Saturday.

Of course, Johnny Kling was not missed but do you recall any notable change in the Cub lineup from last year except that of catcher? And that's not saying Archer and Moran are not good catchers, either.

These reform governors are a terrible nuisance when it comes to a point where they might overlook a few things.

Richard Croker sell his horses and return to politics? After winning an English Derby? Not much!

It has got to that stage where one can speak of the champion Cubs in the past tense without risk of being considered unfair by the president of the Job Getters union.

ATHLETICS MUST FIGHT HARD TO WIN PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—While it has lost some ground on its present eastern trip, the Detroit club stands an excellent chance this season of winning its third consecutive pennant, and thereby establishing a record for the American league. Detroit's advantage over Philadelphia now is two and one-half games, or 16 points.

Detroit has six games scheduled—four with Boston and two with Chicago—and, if it should win four, Philadelphia would have to win all its seven remaining contests to tie for the championship. Should Detroit win four out of six and Philadelphia win seven straight, each team would have 99 victories 54 defeats, and an average of .647. In this event, a series of three games would have to be played to decide the tie.

Philadelphia will play two games with Chicago tomorrow. Detroit is scheduled to play a double-header in Boston.

Sporting Notes

National league consecutive pennant records appear safe.

And some foolish persons tried to start some prize fighting at Bloomington, Ill. Mercy!

It is suggested the White Sox this year will hear the returns of the world's series by messenger. Help!

Do these be the days of reform. A promising football player threatens to quit the gridiron for study.

We anticipate a little trouble before the post series between the Cubs and the White Sox is arranged.

Governor Hughes also is something of an authority on the difference between friendly sparring and prizefighting.

Frank Chance's team is still the same gamesome, wholesome bunch of ball players that it was when it had all that bunting hanging to it. In the eyes of its countless host of admirers, it deserved the pennant, and that is as good as winning it.

Dear Sir: The Gentlemen of Ireland are playing the Gentlemen of Philadelphia at cricket. Does this suggest any possibilities to you? C. F. S.

Ans. It looks pretty fair as it is, don't you think?

Ting-a-ling—Is there still a chance for the Cubs?

D. W.—There most assuredly is.

Ting-a-ling—I understand they have given up hope.

D. W.—Not at all, but it may be that they have asked for waivers on it.

Canada desires to repel the army of bookmakers that has been descending upon it without resorting to drastic measures. It would substitute the pari mutuel device for the machine that talks. No matter how you wager on a horse race the money goes the same way but the pari mutuel machine saves the annoyance of seeing it buying diamonds for the misses at our expense.

A certain golfing doctor, with a select and discriminating practice, would like to meet the staff photographer who snapped him while he (the doctor) was engaged in the pernicious habit of smoking a cigarette. It does not occur to the doctor that the scandal might have been avoided if he had not been smoking the cigarette at the time the picture was taken. We have added this one to other things that look different in print.

For the first time in election in Germany has been held up by a woman. A baroness in Westphalia was entitled to cast a proxy vote at a municipal election. Finding that her name had been left off the registry the baroness protested. When her protest was unheeded and the election was held she appealed to the law. The courts promptly quashed the election and ordered it held over again so that the baroness could cast her vote.

BEAR STORIES FROM MINES; SPRING IS ELECTED CAPTAIN

Special to The Gazette.

GOLDEN, Sept 28.—If the School of Mines is not permitted to play freshmen against Colorado College there will be no game. Coach Curtis says that the Mines could muster only seven men, without the freshmen. Of the men eligible, according to the faculty conference rules, only four have reported for practice so far this season.

The games so ar arranged are as follows:

October 9 or 16—Sacred Heart at Golden.
October 23—University of Wyoming at Laramie.
November 6—Denver university, at Denver.
Thanksgiving day—University of Colorado at Broadway park, Denver.

Archie T. Spring, halfback for the last two seasons, has been elected captain. The eleven is working hard with the following lineup:

DUBACH IS WINNER OF DODGE TENNIS TROPHY

Otto F. Dubach yesterday afternoon won the second leg on the Dodge tennis trophy by defeating Herve Hutchison in straight sets in an exciting match on the Y. M. C. A. tennis courts. The scores were 6-3, 6-3, 7-5.

Dubach won the trophy last year. If he can win it again next year, it becomes his property. The runner up cup was awarded to Hutchison. Yesterday afternoon's match was hotly contested. Dubach had a comparatively easy time in the first two sets, but came near losing the third.

In the first round of the consolations, Dr. Gillette won from Gerald Seldomridge, Sinton and Thomas will probably play this afternoon.

MESSAGE FROM WILLUS

Regarding the interference of Jerome, the following unofficial message has been received from Willus Britt:

I

What care I about the winter?
What care I about the frost?
I can order coal by shiploads
And I needn't mind the cost.
What care I for snow and blizzards?
I can stall them with a smile.
For I'm going west with Ketchel,
And his ticket's safe a while.

When I signed him up with Langford
I was lippy in the dome.
And I sure would lose the wager
If it wasn't for Jerome.

II

Well, I'm going west with Stanley,
And we're glad to get away,
And we'll talk again with Langford
Some we will some other day.
I was surely frightened, honest,
With the winter coming on,
And the contest drawing nearer,
And the ticket almost gone.

Now I'm swift speeding westward,
I'll be glad when I am home
And I get my ticket landed—
Thanks are due to one Jerome.

REXALL COMPANY MAY ERECT MILL

VICTOR PROPERTY IS MAKING GREAT SHOWING.

New Grace Vein Showing Values and Ouations Will Be Extended.

Special to The Gazette

VICTOR, Colo, Sept 28.—High values are reported obtaining from recent development work on the Grace vein recently exposed at the eighth and ninth levels of the Rexall Gold Mining company's main shaft.

At the eighth level the west drift has entered a rich shoot and the mine samples taken by Superintendent H. R. Brooks, are returning values by assay test of from two to thirteen ounces gold, or $40 to $260 to the ton. This level was carried out from the incline shaft at a depth of about 700 feet from surface. At the ninth level, 800 feet deep, an upraise on the same vein, 175 feet north of the breast of the drift, has shown an increase in values of from $28 to $37.20 a ton.

Air lines are being laid in the shaft and commencing next week two additional machine drills are to be used in crosscutting east from the ninth or bottom level of the Rexall shaft to the boundary of the Spicer claim. No work has been done on this property below the 500-foot level, and the four veins exposed in the upper workings are expected to carry rich ore shoots at the greater depth.

President Knight of the Rexall company will visit the property next week, and at the next meeting of the directors, to be held in the offices of the company in Denver, definite action will be taken looking to the erection of a mill for the treatment of the company's production of ore.

IDA MAY LESSEES FINALLY GET ORE

Special to The Gazette

ALTMAN, Colo., Sept. 28.—Trout and associates, leasing on the property of the Ida May Gold Mining company on Beacon hill, after months of prospecting have opened up an ore shoot at shallow depth. Recently the lessees abandoned the old workings and commenced to sink a new shaft from surface. Within 25 feet from surface a basalt dyke exposed in the old working was encountered, and the vein matter, carrying a greenish color, possibly roscoelite, has shown values above the average for basalt ores. The first shipment is expected to bring a settlement at the rate of close to two ounces gold to the ton.

WOODLAND DISTRICT BEING PROSPECTED

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Sept. 28.—The Woodland Park mining district, in the northeast corner of Teller county, is receiving considerable attention at the present time from prospectors in search of pitchblende and other mineral deposits. During the present week a number of locations have been made in that section, and the certificates have been duly filed here with the county clerk and recorder. Yesterday's filings were as follows. The Little Emma and Little Genevieve claims by Charles Wilson and Martin McGrath, the Mexico lode by W. Higgins, and the Chin-Chin lode by Ellie Higgins. A number of other locations have not yet been filed.

FURTHER RECOVERY FROM SHARP DECLINE

Quick and Pronounced Revival of Speculative Confidence Hard to Explain.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The recovery from last week's decline which set in yesterday was substantially extended in today's stock market and United States Steel and Atchison were distinguished by new record prices. Explanation of the marked revival of speculative confidence was not clear and observers were inclined to look for some concealed technical condition to account for the extreme facility with which prices were advanced. One supposition advanced was that a short interest of unsuspected proportions had been discovered by the adroit conductors of the recent movements in the market and that they were able to control the action of prices to the discomfiture of the shorts.

The money market seems proof against adverse circumstances and the operations on the long side today were conducted with every appearance of unhampered freedom.

The near approach of the large October settlements made no impression on the money market. The tone of calls was slightly easier if anything, although the rates were not quotably changed. New York exchange at Chicago rose to par and the banks were correspondingly relieved from pressure on that side. The subtreasury meanwhile continues to draw cash from the banks, the total for the banking week rising today to $2,898,000 compared with only $591,000 in the corresponding time last week.

There were heavy remittances also today to Canada, $500,000 being withdrawn from the subtreasury in gold for that destination, in addition to $900,000 shipped yesterday. Speculators, however, disregarded the narrow banking surplus and the animated and volatile movements in different stocks were based more often on conjectural dividend prospects. Atchison, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Rock Island preferred and United States Steel itself were directly affected by this consideration. There was nothing authoritative made known as to the actual intention of those controlling the finances of these companies. The rise in United States Steel was stimulated by reports of the placing of heavy buying orders for steel rails by the great railroad systems, the Pennsylvania being mentioned as ordering 2,000 tons for next year. A strong recovery in the Erie stocks was a feature in the day's market.

The bond market was irregular. The buoyant rise in United States Steel to 89¾ was accompanied by a decline in the sinking fund bonds.

Total sales, par value, $5,950,000.

U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

BRISK DEMAND FOR CASH GRAIN GENERAL

Wheat, Corn and Oats All Close at Higher Figures.—Buying Heavy.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Wheat prices advanced from 1⅜@2½c today on buying based on brisk demand for the cash grain at all important centers. The market closed strong at almost the top. Corn, oats and provisions also closed strong. Wheat news was bullish, the principal item of an opposite nature being the French crop report, indicating a total yield of 667,000,000, or 55,000,000 in excess of last year.

The wheat opening prices were ⅛@½c higher, December being at 99⅜ to 99⅝, and September at 103⅝ to 103⅞. Prices continued to advance until September had touched 105⅞ and December 101¼. The close was strong with December at 101 and September at 105⅞. Buying by shorts caused strength in corn and resulted in advances for the day of ½@⅝. September displayed less strength than the deferred months.

The buying of September shorts was the feature of oats. At the close prices were up ½@¾@1c.

Provisions were firm all day. Prices at the close were 15c lower to 10c higher.

Wants

WANTED MALE HELP.

A FEW years spent in the navy are years of valuable experience. Habits of regularity are formed. Healthy exercise, regular drills, and growing responsibility develop quickness and self-reliance. Many large employers prefer men who have had naval training because more capable and efficient.

Young men with mechanical knowledge have greater opportunities. They master their trade instead of being mere helpers.

Go to a recruiting office and learn about the fine chances in the different branches of the service to save money, the hours of duty, cruises, sports, promotion, etc. You are not urged to enlist. Individuality will be developed, not suppressed, in the navy. Ask anyone in the service about it.

The navy hanger in postoffice, and navy posters will give you an idea of the appearance of a bluejacket. Apply at Navy Recruiting Office, Alamo Bldg., Denver, Colo.

CIVIL SERVICE—We want young men and women who wish to enter the U. S. civil service. If you are over 18, an American, and can read and write, we can qualify you to pass examinations. Write at once for "Civil Service Booklet," stating age. I. C. S., Box 1067 C, Scranton, Pa.

Health Seekers

Are learning to depend less on medicine and more on proper food. Olive Oil is a food It is not a medicine. It contains more nourishment than almost any other food, yet the weakest stomach can easily assimilate it, that is, if it is pure. We handle a fine oil from the first pressing of cream lucca olive. There's vigor in every drop. You'd better try it for your health's sake.
